More than 1,000 Science-based Presentations

3,600+ Attendees

More than 175 Exhibitors
On behalf of the International Association for Food Protection’s Executive Board, we invite you to take part in IAFP 2019, July 21–24, at the Kentucky International Convention Center in Louisville.

IAFP’s Annual Meeting is the leading global food safety conference, attended by more than 3,600 food safety professionals from around the world. This outstanding meeting offers the latest scientific research results presented during more than 100 sessions on topic areas such as: practical advice for digital communication; cottage foods; home food delivery; agricultural water; cultured meat; tracing produce; challenges in low moisture food-plant sanitation; and dozens of other topics.

IAFP 2019 also provides multiple opportunities to network with global food safety leaders from industry, government and academia. Every day provides new possibilities to interact with food safety professionals while sharing your experiences as well as learning from colleagues.

Don’t miss this opportunity to be among the thousands of dedicated food safety professionals who attend this conference every year! Register now for the world’s leading food safety conference – IAFP 2019! We count on your participation and look forward to seeing you in Louisville, Kentucky!

Out of the many Food Safety Conferences I attend each year, IAFP is clearly the best. The technical content is unmatched – the technical sessions are always new and fresh and come from the attendees themselves. The educational workshops before the conference are always interesting and applicable to issues we face in the Food Safety Ecosystem. Then there is the networking and Exhibit Hall! Always great to see new technology and old friends walking the show floor and talking science. No where else do you get the merger of all of education, technology and networking in one place.

IAFP FOUNDATION CONTRIBUTIONS COUNT!

Contributions generated at IAFP Annual Meeting are crucial to the programs supported by the IAFP Foundation. During IAFP 2019, be sure to drop by the IAFP Foundation Booth and help fill the “Ping Pong Contributions Tube” through your donations. You’ll also receive the latest in a series of IAFP commemorative coins!

The Silent Auction is another entertaining and fun way to contribute to the IAFP Foundation while taking home a great souvenir from the conference. Know that your contributions go toward valuable programs such as:

- Student Travel Scholarships and Student Competitions
- Travel Awards
- Travel Support for IAFP Conference Speakers and Other programs Advancing Food Safety Worldwide®

IAFP APP
The IAFP 2019 Meeting App will be available to registered attendees in June. Attendees can create an individualized meeting schedule by selecting sessions to attend, posters to view, people to meet and exhibits to explore. Features include personalized messaging, maps and announcements.

IAFP's Professional Development Group
Meetings are Open to All!

If you plan to attend IAFP 2019, be sure to participate in one or more of IAFP’s Professional Development Group (PDG) meetings. These groups give food safety professionals the opportunity to be part of open and in-depth discussions in 27 topic areas related to keeping our food supply safe.

Sharing your ideas and experiences in these meetings prior to IAFP 2019’s symposia and technical sessions will bring questions to the forefront and link your participation in these groups to the hundreds of presentations at the world’s leading food safety conference.

No matter your level of experience – student in food safety, novice food safety professional or seasoned expert – come ready to provide valuable input that benefits everyone in attendance. There is no fee to join our PDGs, and we welcome all perspectives on existing topics and issues to help others learn and share among their peers.

For a complete schedule of PDG and Committee meetings, visit the IAFP 2019 website.

Plan now to arrive at IAFP 2019 in time for our PDG meetings on Saturday and Sunday. Don’t miss out on this additional Annual Meeting benefit!

IAFP SILENT AUCTION

Don’t miss out on this year’s Silent Auction, taking place Sunday–Tuesday during IAFP 2019! This popular and lively event includes dozens of unique and desirable items donated by IAFP Members, Affiliates, sponsors and attendees, often from their respective locale.

The auction generates valuable revenue for the IAFP Foundation and fun for the attendees, providing chances to do a bit of competitive bidding with hopes of taking home a great souvenir! To donate items for the 2019 Silent Auction, visit the IAFP website.

JOB FAIR

Attention Job Seekers and Employers!

Job announcements will be posted at the Student PDG booth.

SUPPORT THE STUDENTS OF IAFP

Order your Student t-shirt when you register for IAFP 2019 or plan to purchase a t-shirt at the Student PDG Booth.

IAFP has been, hands down, the most awesome experience of my professional life! Not only have I been able to attend cutting-edge talks while being part of professional groups striving to collaborate on larger food safety and food system issues (in all aspects); but I have met the absolute coolest people (and made some of my best friends) through IAFP. The organization and conference are both incredibly rewarding in cultivating collaborations and relationships that deeply impact and shape the course of this field!
